Customer Reviews

..,"pleasing-to-the-eye introductions to correct behavior, especially suitable for classroom use."..,"The writing is clear, no nonsense. The correct behavior is highlighted through an example...followed by the sentence "He [or she or they] is [or are] using good manners," which strengthens the message....Especially suitable for classroom use..." --This text refers to the Library Binding edition.

Amanda Doering Tourville is the author of more than 15 books for children. Her book Rain Forest ABC: An Alphabet Book (Capstone Press, 2004) was nominated for the 2005-2006 Mocking Bird Award. The same book was also on the American Library Association's booklist of Outstanding Science Read-Alouds. Amanda currently lives in St. Paul, Minnesota, with her husband and her chinchilla. She loves animals and would have an entire zoo if she could. She also enjoys traveling and photographing wonderful, exotic places. Her photography has been featured in books and magazines.

Library manners are so hard to keep in students minds, especially when they come in a a whole class. This book is great to read and then set out as a reminder.

Great introduction to the library! My K-2 students loved it.

This is a great source when teaching young children/preschoolers how to treat their books - it is a great teaching tool that I use at storytime for a first time Library visit - I work at a Children's Library. It is amazing how many children do not know how to treat their books! This is a great series.

I was looking for a good book to help start the discussion on how we treat classroom books. Book was good but I probably would not buy again.

This was perfect for my Kinder students as an orientation to the library.

The book was in excellent shape and is PERFECT for our kids.

Excellent product!! Definitely recommend!! :)

Was what I expected
