Founded in 1915 as the Cartographic Group, the first division of National Geographic, National Geographic Maps has been responsible for illustrating the world around us through the art and science of mapmaking. Today, National Geographic Maps continues this mission by creating the world's best wall maps, recreation maps, atlases, and globes which inspire people to care about and explore their world.

Doesn't really cover the areas where your average tourist (us) would need a map of. More of an outback trail map at best, not good for the regular vacationer. Now, if I were backpacking -- I'd want this map set.

Nice map and does what it's supposed to do. However, it doesn't use a standard scale so you can't use a military style protractor to locate specific coordinates. I'm sure most people don't care, but a few will.

As is typical of the NG maps series, these two maps are highly detailed, waterproof, tear-resistant maps. They will withstand lots of use and will be very beneficial to any explorer of the Black Hills. Be aware that some minor roads go by different names than the numbered route identifiers on the map. That's not a big problem; just know that guide books and locals may identify a road differently from how the map does.

This is the best map of the Green Mountain National Forest starting in North Adams, MA, up thru Bennington, Peru, Rutland, and further. The map is Tyvek waterproof type. A great legend and is current from what we could see.

National Geographic produces some of the greatest maps on the planet. This two pack helps save some money, if you were going to buy both maps separately. They are high quality, and are water resistant. They have all the local trails, and campground information. A must have if venturing in the Black Hills.

I absolutely love these maps. We go trail riding in the mountains and I always keep these maps with me along with the vehicle use maps. Never can have too many maps.

Maps are a real help for atv trails and roads to travel around the Black Hills.

Great maps!
