

The book was found

The Maps Of First Bull Run: An Atlas Of The First Bull Run (Manassas) Campaign, Including The Battle Of Ball's Bluff, June-October 1861 (American Battle Series)

Synopsis

Bradley M. Gottfried's The Maps of First Bull Run: An Atlas of the First Bull Run (Manassas) Campaign, including the Battle of Ball's Bluff, June - October 1861 is the eagerly awaited companion volume to his bestselling The Maps of Gettysburg (2007, two editions, four printings), part of the ongoing Savas Beatie Atlas Series. The Maps of First Bull Run breaks down the entire operation (and related actions) into numerous map sets or "action-sections" enriched with more than fifty full-color original full-page maps. These cartographic originals bore down to the regimental and battery level and include the march to and from the battlefield and virtually every significant event in between. At least two and as many as seventeen maps accompany each "action-section." Keyed to each piece of cartography is a full facing page of detailed text describing the units, personalities, movements, and combat (including quotes from eyewitnesses) depicted on the accompanying map, all of which make the story of First Bull Run come alive. This original presentation makes it easy for readers to quickly locate a map and text on virtually any portion of the campaign. Readers will maneuver with Confederate and Union armies in the Shenandoah Valley, march with General McDowell's Federals to the plains of Manassas, and fight blow-by-blow through the battle up to its stunning climax on Henry House Hill and the final retreat from the battlefield all the way to Washington. The smaller but important Battle of Ball's Bluff is also covered in the same fashion, as is the skirmish at Lewinsville. Serious students will appreciate the extensive and authoritative endnotes, bibliography, and complete orders of battle. They will also want to bring the book along on their trips to the battlefields. Perfect for the easy chair or for walking hallowed ground, The Maps of First Bull Run is a seminal work that, like his earlier Gettysburg study, belongs on the bookshelf of every serious and casual student of the Civil War.

About the Author: Bradley M. Gottfried, Ph.D., is the President of the College of Southern Maryland. An avid Civil War historian, Dr. Gottfried is the author of five books, including Brigades of Gettysburg: The Union and Confederate Brigades at the Battle of Gettysburg (2002) and The Maps of Gettysburg (2007). He is currently working with co-editor Theodore P. Savas on a Gettysburg Campaign encyclopedia.

REVIEWS "Brad Gottfried's The Maps of First Bull Run is a solid follow-up to his The Maps of Gettysburg. The maps are very user-friendly, easily readable, and highly detailed without being the least bit confusing, and there are enough of them to give a complete picture of the course of the action. Combine each full-page map with the facing text, and this book provides readers with a good understanding of much of the action in the Eastern Theater during the first year of the war." James A. Morgan, III, author of A Little Short of Boats: The Fights at

Ball's Bluff and Edward's Ferry, October 21-22, 1861" Brad Gottfried's The Maps of First Bull Run is filled with full-page maps and accompanying facing text that will help make sense of the confusing series of events for Bull Run/Manassas neophytes and old hands alike. I highly recommend it. • Harry Smeltzer, host of the Civil War blog Bull Runnings

Book Information

Series: American Battle Series

Hardcover: 144 pages

Publisher: Savas Beatie (June 10, 2009)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 193271460X

ISBN-13: 978-1932714609

Product Dimensions: 0.8 x 7 x 10.5 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.4 pounds

Average Customer Review: 4.7 out of 5 stars 15 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #844,021 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #15 in Books > History >
Americas > United States > Civil War > Campaigns & Battlefields > Bull Run #339 in Books >
History > Historical Study & Educational Resources > Historical Maps #902 in Books >
Reference > Atlases & Maps > United States

Customer Reviews

Dr. Bradley M. Gottfried holds a Ph.D. in Zoology from Miami University. He has worked in higher education for more than three decades as a faculty member and administrator. He is currently President of the College of Southern Maryland.

written by a college I attended, president

I used this book to help follow the action while reading four books on the campaign and battle of First Manassas/Bull Run and two books on the raid/battle of Ball's Bluff and it made a big difference in my ability to keep up with the text since none of the books on these military actions have enough maps!(Morgan's book on Ball's Bluff had the best battle maps but "The Maps Of First Bull Run" did a great job showing the situation in Northern Virginia in late 1861 and the Union Army of the Potomac's movements prior to the battle. Plus, the battlefield situation at Ball's Bluff and Edwards Ferry is enlarged and colorized, making the action easier to follow) First, here are the books I read on the subjects covered by the maps in this volume: 1. The First Battle of Manassas by John Hennessy 2. A Single Grand Victory by Ethan S. Rafuse 3. Battle at Bull Run by William C. Davis 4. Donnybrook by David Detzer 5. A Little Short of Boats by James A. Morgan III 6. Ball's Bluff by Byron Farwell All of these books were a good source to learn about the campaign and battle of First Manassas/Bull Run and Ball's Bluff but by using "The Maps of First Bull Run" I feel my ability to follow the armies movements leading up to the clash of arms and the complicated maneuvers and fighting on these battlefields was greatly enhanced. The book uses a format where the map is on the right hand page and the text describing the actions on that map are located on the left hand page so there is no flipping back and forth through the book looking for the appropriate map to follow the course of events. The maps show all the terrain types (including elevations unlike many military history books) needed to help the reader picture what the armies saw and understand how their decisions were influenced by the lay of the land. Units are shown as brigades, regiments, battalions, companies, batteries, and sections. There are 51 maps total. The first ten maps detail the situation in the Northern Virginia/Shenandoah Valley theater of operations, the movements of both sides to the banks of Bull Run and the movements in the Valley including Confederate General Joe Johnston's evasion of Union General Patterson's forces to reinforce Beauregard at Manassas, the Battle of Blackburn's Ford 18 July, 1861, and McDowell's planning of the battle 19 and 20 July, 1861. The next 27 maps show the Battle of First Manassas/Bull Run from the Union flanking march to the Federal forces rout and retreat to Washington. The last 14 maps cover the time period after the battle and up to the action at Ball's Bluff October 21, 1861 and its aftermath. Appendix 1 gives an Order of Battle for both sides with losses at First Manassas/Bull Run, Appendix 2 gives the same for Ball's Bluff, followed by a nice section of Notes for each map, a decent Bibliography, and Index. The maps and text are great. If you want to better understand these early battles in Virginia, "The Maps of First Bull Run" is a great help for a Civil War buff, or just a casual reader of history. Highly recommended.

If you want the detail as to where and when each unit of both armies were during the battle, this book is for you. I keep waiting for more of this series.

I found the maps of Ball's Bluff particularly useful in figuring out what happened at the obscure but complex early Civil War Battle. A job well done and I recommend it.

I purchased this book as background research for my series of novels about the Marines in the Civil War (The Forgotten Marines). I am very pleased with the content.

this is the book i've always looked for! nleflhwefjkhewfwhk q3rijokjwfjkji3qij3 ijfjiow 3ji jiodo j3 fwojfwjo wjk3njjiio fewj jqdjfe jqdjkl jfjl

In spite of some defects, which I will discuss below, the book is very useful in understanding 1st Manassas/Bull Run. The maps for Ball's Bluff are a bit problematic. A truly wish I could give Mr. Gottfried's "The Maps of First Bull Run" a better ranking, but I cannot. In reading his book, "The Maps of Gettysburg," I noted several errors. Since the terrain at the Gettysburg Battlefield proper is well known, I did not spend much time worrying over those errors. However, the errors in "The Maps of First Bull Run" with regard to Ball's Bluff are another matter. I will only concentrate on two map sets from this work: 1) Map 40, which purports to show the area between Washington, DC. And Leesburg, Virginia, and 2) Maps 41 through 44, which purport to show the Balls Bluff Battle Area. First, Gottfried's maps do not agree with each other. Map 40 shows the road from Edward's Ferry to Leesburg starting south of Goose Creek (unnamed), whereas Maps 41-44 show the road starting north of Goose Creek (which is correct). Map 40 has numerous errors. Gottfried shows a road running from Edward's Ferry Southeast to Guilford Station. There was no such road as he shows it. The real road crossed the road between Edwards Ferry and Leesburg a good way west of Edwards Ferry, and crossed the Goose Creek Canal (a fact never mentioned, but of great importance) at the Kipheart & Davis Mill and Saw Mill, then joined the Leesburg and Alexandria Turnpike via two branches, one to Belmont P.O. and one to Frankville. Neither of these branches got near Guilford Sta. Gottfried shows Catocin Mountain running NE of Leesburg; it does not. Catocin Mtn runs almost due north from Leesburg to Point of Rocks, MD. Moreover, Map 40 does not show the roads leading NE from Leesburg to Spinks Ferry (sometimes called The Hauling Ford) and Noland's Ferry, nor does it show White's Ford, nor does it show how the road from Conrad's Ferry to Leesburg. Please note, these were the key roads in understanding Stone's command duties at the Corps of Observation at Camps Benton and Stone near Poolesville (the property whereon Camp Benton was located I own). Understanding these roads, fords, and ferries is critical to understanding the Battle of Balls Bluff. There are other errors on Map 40, including other roads where there were none, major roads missing, water courses unnamed, but there are additional errors in the text. Gottfried describes the "Langley" crossing of the Potomac (a worry to McClellan) as near Poolesville. There are several problems here. First, there were no crossings at Langley (excepting Chain Bridge, well guarded); there was Coon's Ferry above Great Falls, which led to Rockville via Offutt's Cross Roads in Maryland. Second, there was Seneca Ford, which was closer to Poolesville, but is not indicated on Map 40 (JEB Stuart crossed his cavalry there during the Gettysburg campaign). [NOTE: Gottfried inaccurately locates Edwards Ferry at Seneca in "The Maps of Gettysburg."] In short, Gottfried's text accompanying Map 40 is wrong on this point. Maps 41-44 are on a much smaller scale than Map 41. While the errors here are fewer, they are more misleading on a small scale map. First, Gottfried does not show the road that connected the crossroads of the Kipheart Mill Rd. and Edwards Ferry Rd. with Smart's Mill and the Potomac warehouses north of Conrad's Ferry. This road, although not major, could have been used by the 1st Minnesota and the 7th Michigan to give flank support to Baker's troops at Ball's Bluff. It also could have been used as a line of retreat by the 15th and 20th Mass. and the 42nd NY instead of the disastrous attempt to re-cross the Potomac to Harrison's Island. Also missing is the extension to River Road on the Maryland side Stone had built to connect Edwards Ferry and Conrad's Ferry without exposing troops to fire on the C&O Canal tow path. This road could have been used to move troops and, more importantly, artillery to the battle area from either ferry, but was not so used. In sum, a book that purports to be about battle maps should be more accurate. Some errors in Civil War era maps are inevitable. But many of the errors committed by Gottfried could have been prevented by simply consulting the Atlas that accompanied the OR. Alas, what this book could and should be in relation to what it is are distant peaks for the Ball's Bluff maps.

The maps are a bit lacking in detail as far as the lay of the land goes. The maps do present a clear look at troop movements and the accompanying text is precise and adds to one's understanding of how the battle developed.

Download to continue reading...

The Maps of First Bull Run: An Atlas of the First Bull Run (Manassas) Campaign, including the Battle of Ball's Bluff, June-October 1861 (American Battle Series) Maps of First Bull Run: An Atlas of the First Bull Run (Manassas) Campaign, including the Battle of Ball's Bluff, June - October 1861 (American Battle Series) "We Shall Meet Again": The First Battle of Manassas (Bull Run), July 18-21, 1861 First Manassas 1861: The Battle of Bull Run: With visitor information (Trade Editions) Debacles at Bull Run: The Battles of First Manassas and Second Manassas Return to Bull Run: The Campaign and Battle of Second Manassas First Bull Run 1861: The South's first victory (Campaign) The Greatest Civil War Battles: The First Battle of Bull Run (First Manassas) Maps of Gettysburg: An Atlas of the Gettysburg Campaign, June 3 - July 13, 1863 (American Battle Series)

A Single Grand Victory: The First Campaign and Battle of Manassas (The American Crisis Series, Book 7) A Single Grand Victory: The First Campaign and Battle of Manassas (The American Crisis Series: Books on the Civil War Era) The First Battle of Manassas: An End to Innocence, July 18-21, 1861 The Greatest Civil War Battles: The Second Battle of Bull Run (Second Manassas) CIVIL WAR CIVILIAN LIFE: MANASSAS, VIRGINIA (Battle of Bull Run) General James Longstreet at Second Bull Run: Account of the Battle from His Memoirs, From Manassas to Appomattox The Start of the Civil War: The Secession of the South, Fort Sumter, and First Bull Run (First Manassas) The Maps of Antietam: An Atlas of the Antietam (Sharpsburg) Campaign, including the Battle of South Mountain, September 2 - 20, 1862 (Savas Beatie Military Atlas) Donnybrook: The Battle of Bull Run, 1861 The Battle of Bull Run: July 21, 1861 [Annotated] Report of Brig. Gen. T. J. Jackson (Stonewall Jackson), C. S. Army, commanding First Brigade, Army of the Shenandoah (1st Manassas or 1st Bull Run)

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help